

The Church of All Hallows

The major part of the present church was built around 1240. Its tower was added in the fourteenth century and the parapet spire in the fifteenth.

Comprehensive restoration was carried out in the 1860s by Prebendary Francis Hingeston-Randolph who was Ringmore's parish priest for fifty years. During this restoration the remarkable mediaeval painting on the chancel arch was uncovered and the walls of the nave were partially lined with decorative tin plate. The tin plate eventually caused serious condensation and in 1961 a faculty was granted for its removal and for the application of a pink render to the walls.

The church structure is maintained in good working condition, but the ravages of time and weather necessitate continual maintenance and investment.

In 2003 a millennium clock was installed in the tower and more recently an electronic hymnal was purchased. This provides music when no organist is available. The Brevington organ, however, is maintained in good working order and is played regularly.

We would like to thank the Flower Arrangers and everyone who has supported the Flower Festival. A thank you also goes to those who have acted as Stewards at the Church. We are grateful and thank everyone who has provided and helped to serve refreshments in the W. I Hall. Special thanks to the Otter Garden Centre for providing some plants and Holywell Stores who always support local events.

We hope you have enjoyed your visit
