ALFRED LOCKYER Many friends of 'Alf' will join me in the very sad loss of Alfred who was barman at the Journey's End for 30 years. He came to Ringmore in 1957 to marry his late wife Margaret, and retired to Norfolk in 1987.

He passed away on Sunday 8th October after a big operation at Norfolk & Norwich Hospital in Norwich. He will be sadly missed but remembered by all who knew him from those very happy days from the past.

Hoist with one's own petard! Derek Matten's absence from the Harvest Festival thwarted an attempt to be up with the news. He missed a good evening. Attractive tables, good food - the desserts were worth the price of the ticket alone - and a jongleur, well, almost. Derek would have approved of the Euterpean entertainment and he would have been thrilled by the Terpsichorean display!

Most people need at least one copy of the local Tide Tables. The Newsletter has produced its own copy (only the cover is different), at only 50p to support funds. First editions are always worth more and there will be no reprint.

Bonfire Night, Ringmore style, is to be revived this year. The JE would welcome volunteers to help, whatever your skills. Date: 11th. Time and place to be announced on the Notice Board.

On 20th November there will be a clean-up in the church and churchyard. Volunteers would be most welcome, even for half an hour. If nothing else, this gives a first impression of the village

Alfred Lockyer, who was part of the Ringmore scene for three decades, has died in Norwich - he will be remembered by everyone who new the Journey's End in the fifties, sixties, seventies and eighties.... Table Tennis has started in the Parish Room on Tuesday evenings - more inside The Royal British Legion is raising its profile this month - no need to tell you why Tickets for the Short Mat Bowls' Wild West adventure are now available There will be a Millennium Meeting in the WI Hall at 7.30pm on 14th If you can help at the PCC Christmas Fair in December , please contact Yvonne Sheppard RHS AGM on Wednesday 1st - come and hear Dennis Collinson give his illustrated views on the Virgin Queen.

The Parish Council has listened to opinions and has changed its mind over the siting of the Litter Bin, mentioned last month. Sometimes it pays to have your say!

The Reading Room in Kingston was the venue to say farewell to Derek and Delphine Matten, and a retirement cheque for over \pounds 1,100 testified to people's appreciation of their hard work during the past five years. We wish them God's richest blessing as they move back to Totnes.

The hunt is now on for Derek's successor. The post is what is called a "House for Duty" position, which means that the diocese provides accommodation (The Church House in Ringmore) plus a small honorarium, and the minister serves on a part-time basis. Given that Bigbury, Kingston and Ringmore originally had two full-time clergy, it is asking a lot for someone to cover the same work part-time! It does, however, give the opportunity for church members to take responsibility, under the minister, for some of the tasks which need to be done. Good "House for Duty" clergy are not easy to find, so please pray for the right person to be appointed.

November 12 is Remembrance Sunday. The service this year is in Kingston at 10.50 a.m. (which enables us to observe the traditional two minutes' silence) and will be followed by a short ceremony at the War Memorial for the laying of the wreaths. Fewer and fewer people have any memory of war or of fallen comrades, but the annual Remembrance enables us to express our gratitude to all who have laboured for peace, both in the two world wars and since, and to remember especially those who died or were maimed as a result. Christians will remember with gratitude, too, the sacrifice that Jesus Christ made on the cross, to bring peace with God to all who trust him.

Bigbury Church will remain closed until December 10 for internal repair and redecoration work. Whilst the church is out of action, services will take place in the Barn of Bigbury Court Farmhouse next door, by kind permission of Mencap. The details of all church services during the month are set out below. In general, the Revd Mike Wilkinson will celebrate the services of Holy Communion, and I will lead the other services.

November is the time for planting the cloth as a Cataplasm [a plaster] to the Present: 6 Councillors, The Clerk, and 3 corms of that wonderful bulb, garlic. It is Feet, but not if the Child is Feverish'. medicine and agriculture.

RINGMORE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Fragments of garlic were discovered when Crossways - The offending compost heap the ancient city of Jericho was excavated. In BC1500 some garlic bulbs were put in the tomb of Tut-ankh-Amen and are now to be seen, perfectly petrified, in the Cairo National Museum, Garlic is eaten in almost every part of the world. It probably came to Britain with the Romans and quickly became part of the staple diet of soldiers and the poor. Until the seventeenth century roadside banks in Devon has been widely it was a component of innumerable recipes for salad, vegetable, meat and cheese dishes. It then fell from favour except in cottage gardens and was scarcely mentioned in Victorian cookery books. A certain Mrs Earle, writing in 1897, made so bold as to mention its virtues as a flavouring, but with a wincing delicacy characteristic of the era:

Garlic, which is excellent as a flavouring to most sauces, is such a dangerous thing to use in the kitchen that the way I manage it is this: Put five or six cloves of garlic into a wide-necked bottle and cover them with good spirits of wine. When wanted, stick a skewer or fork into the spirit and use a drop or two. The spirit evaporates and the taste of garlic remains. But even in this way it must be used carefully for English palates."

Mrs Beaton was equally squeamish about this noble flavouring. But in the midtwentieth century garlic came back to Britain at a gallop. More exactly, it was brought back on ferries from France, by holiday-makers, by enraptured readers of Elizabeth David cookery books and by the itinerant French onion sellers. Accounts of the medicinal, healing, restorative, magical, domestic and cosmetic properties of garlic are legion.

An early writer declares that: 'It hath a sharp, warming, biting qualitie, expelling of flatulencies, and disturbing of the belly, and drying of the stomach causing of thirst, and puffing up, breeding of boyles in ye outside of the body, dulling the sight of the eyes ... Being eaten it drives out the broude wormes and draws away the urine it is laid upon such as are bitton of a mad dogge ... it doth cleere the arteries ... it doth assuage old coughes. Being drunk with a concoction of Origanum [marjoram] it doth kill lice and nitts the stamping that is made of it and black olive together doth moul the urine and open ye mouths of ye veines and it is good also for the

The efficacy of garlic in the treatment of coughs is well-established. An old Scottish remedy for whooping cough is Garlic beat to a pulp with Sow's Grease and put on a Garlic pulp and juice are antiseptic and cleansing for wounds. In World War I the British government paid a shilling a pound for garlic and bought many tons of it for use in conjunction with sphagnum moss as dressings for the wounds of soldiers. Sphagnum, because of the structure of its cells, is twice as absorbent as cotton wool and in combination with garlic must have saved the lives of many of those wounded in the trenches. The wild white garlic (Ramsons) that clothes many of the used to counter disease in cattle. It has been prescribed in various forms for the treatment of ringworm, eczema, mange, mastitis, bovine abortion, wooden tongue, lung and intestinal worms, Johne's disease and Joint-ill. Its ingestion has not been confined to animals. It used to be eaten green with cheese or boiled bacon and was thought to promote good health if eaten in early spring. It was sometimes distilled in brandy and taken as a medicine. Gardeners are advised to be aware of the alleged powers of garlic. Discreetly planted beneath rose bushes it is said to stimulate their perfume and cure black spot. Between carrots it deters blackfly. Planted beneath a peach tree it is said to mitigate the horrors of peach leaf curl. It deters ants and aphids but is inhibiting to the growth of beans and peas. There is scientific evidence to show that a garlic solution will kill the Culex mosquito and that garlic planted alongside onions will prevent onion fly.

There are some interesting legends about garlic. It has been claimed that ghosts may be warded off by rubbing oneself with garlic, and fairies may be prevented from souring churn butter if garlic is hung on the kitchen doorpost. Unbelievably, 'garlic held in the palm of the hand cures toothache'. And of course, anyone wishing to keep a vampire at bay must wear a necklace of garlic. What has to be remembered is that it will probably keep non-vampires at bay as well.

TABLE TENNIS 0

The Club is now up and running on Tuesday evenings starting at 7.00pm in the Parish Room. Children are more than welcome although after 8.15 it is intended for adults only. Turn out so far has been excellent, and full use of the two tables has been made with a good cross section of skills on show.

The successful start to the Club is due in no small part to the following - the Short Mat Bowls Club for a donation of £30. Journey's End for the loan of their table. James Parkin for the donation of table tennis balls and of course Yvonne for arranging the loan of a table from SHDC.

The cost for each evening session is £1 for adults and 50p for children and it is hoped this will cover hall hire and equipment costs. A committee will be formed in the near future and anyone willing to assist will be more than welcome.

A skills programme scheme will be run by the more experienced players. This will enable everyone - from raw beginners upwards - to improve their game.
